

HR Policy Document – IT Company

1. Introduction

The HR Policy Handbook of our IT company has been designed to establish a transparent, fair, and consistent work environment for all employees. It provides clarity on rights, responsibilities, and expectations across various aspects of employment. This handbook applies to all categories of staff including permanent employees, contract workers, and interns. The policies described here aim to promote a workplace that values integrity, respect, and collaboration. Regular updates will be made in line with legal compliance, industry standards, and organizational requirements. Employees are expected to familiarize themselves with this handbook and refer to it when in doubt. Managers and HR representatives are available to explain specific provisions if needed. The handbook is not a contract but a guiding framework that ensures consistent practices across the company. It covers areas such as working conditions, compensation, benefits, grievance procedures, and performance management. All employees must acknowledge receipt and understanding of these policies during their onboarding process.

2. Code of Conduct

All employees are required to maintain the highest standards of professionalism and integrity. They should behave respectfully with colleagues, clients, and vendors, ensuring that the company's reputation remains intact. Confidentiality is critical, and employees must protect all sensitive company and client information. Ethical behavior is expected in all activities, including decision-making, reporting, and communication. Employees must avoid conflicts of interest and disclose any potential conflicts immediately. The company has zero tolerance for harassment, discrimination, or abusive conduct in any form. Personal use of company property such as laptops, internet, and email must be limited and must not interfere with work responsibilities. Bribes, gifts, or favors from clients or partners that could influence decisions are strictly prohibited. Employees must dress appropriately, adhering to the company's professional standards unless otherwise instructed for specific events. Any violation of the code of conduct will be taken seriously and could lead to disciplinary action, including termination.

3. Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO)

The company is committed to being an equal opportunity employer and ensuring a diverse and inclusive workplace. Decisions related to hiring, promotion, training, compensation, and termination are based purely on merit, qualifications, and business needs. We do not tolerate discrimination of any kind, whether based on gender, age, race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, or marital status. Our recruitment process is designed to eliminate bias and promote fairness at every stage. Employees who experience or witness any discriminatory behavior should report it immediately to HR, and such complaints will be investigated promptly and confidentially. The company also provides diversity and inclusion training to managers and team leads to build awareness of unconscious biases. Efforts are made to encourage underrepresented groups to participate in leadership and technical roles. Equal access to professional development opportunities is ensured for all employees. Retaliation against employees who raise concerns about discrimination is prohibited. Our EEO policy reflects both our values and compliance with labor laws.
